Background: In March 2023, Village Board approved a $450,000 grant to Oak Park Resident Corporation (OPRC) for a condominium-to-apartment conversion initiative. Initial agreement expired in March 2025 without a project; OPRC identified a candidate property in October 2025—a 9-unit condominium facing costly balcony repairs. - Trustee Straw: Questioned how many current residents will remain and the overall impact on housing affordability. Concerned that the project may not add new units but acknowledged its role in preserving affordability and preventing loss of housing stock. Ultimately supportive after clarification that the project secures long-term affordability in a prime, transit-accessible location.
- Trustee Leving Jacobson: Strongly supports the project, emphasizing the importance of preserving existing affordable housing stock alongside creating new units. Asked about the 15-year affordability timeline (confirmed as standard) and oversight process; staff explained monitoring will involve compliance checks and documentation, with systems currently being implemented.
- Trustee Wesley: Views the project as creating affordability, since without intervention, units would likely become market-rate due to costly repairs. Praised the cost efficiency compared to new construction. Highlighted the financial leverage and scalability of funds, calling this an innovative and effective approach to affordable housing.
- Trustee Eder: Strongly supports the project, citing experience with NOAH (Naturally Occurring Affordable Housing) initiatives. Emphasized the importance of preserving existing affordable housing stock, which often goes unnoticed compared to new construction. Advocated for leveraging funds to maintain affordability and keep residents in the community.
